Many Groups To March In Memorial Day Parade

The parade Memorial day in honor of our departed dead is expected to be one of the largest the town has ever seen in this annual observance.

A streamlined program has been adopted by all veteran organizations so that the parade will move over the line of march in much shorter time than ever before.

The parade committee, without taking away any of the honor due to the departed comrades, and wholly in keeping with the respect due to veterans of all wars, has arranged to have only a brief halt at the Memorial auditorium and at the Phillips academy Memorial tower, instead of a program of services at both places as in other years.

The parade will march to the auditorium where it will remain in parade formation while the Veterans of Foreign Wars will place a wreath at the memorial plaque, fire a volley and sound Taps.

From there the marchers will go up to the academy where they will remain in parade formation while the Disabled Veterans' chapter will have charge of similar services.

High School Headmaster Appointed

The school committee Tuesday night elected Harold Howe, 2nd, of 77 Bartlet St., member of the faculty of Phillips academy as headmaster of the junior and senior high schools. His starting salary will be $6,000.

After interviewing 13 candidates, all public school men who had been selected from a long list of applicants, many of them with years of successful experience, the committee took a young man of 32 years with no public school or previous administrative experience. The committee spent an average of one hour with each candidate in executive session during the past several weeks.

When the committee failed to act upon any of the public school candidates as presented by Superintendent of Schools Kenneth L. Sherman, Mr. Sherman turned to nearby Phillips academy and asked the opinion of Dr. John M. Kemper, headmaster there if he would suggest anyone on his faculty for the position. Dr. Kemper recommended young Mr. Howe.

Many Seniors To Enter College

A large number of this year's graduating class of Punchard high school have already been admitted to colleges and universities, or to other schools beyond high school.

The record is still incomplete as several more seniors have taken college board examinations, and others do not expect to receive their formal acceptances until summer.

The number already accepted represents 41% of the senior class enrollment. Of that number 64% have been admitted to four-year degree granting colleges and universities.

The list to date is as follows:

Colleges and universities: Gregory Arabian, Tufts; Claire Ann Archambault, Mount St. Mary's; John Belka, Bowdoin; James Calder, Purdue; Brian Caldwell, Merrimack; Robert Dimlich, University of Massachusetts; Kent Donovan, Harvard; Jean Dumont, Bridgewater State Teachers; Dawn Dunn, Boston university; Helen Glennie, Russell Sage; Edith Gordon, Drury; Claire Mae Henderson, Framingham State Teachers; Andrea Hofer, Bridgewater State Teachers; Norman Hudgins, Northeastern; Ruth Johnson, University of Maine; Arlene Kupis, Radcliffe; Virginia Lawrence Howard; Edward Lawson, Rutgers; Joan Lord, Oberlin; John McCarthy, Holy Cross; Donald Mudgett, M.I.T.; Anne Marie Murray, Lowell State Teachers; Joseph Ratyna, Harvard.

Service Club Elects Officers

Stanley F. Swanton was elected president of the Andover Service club at the concluding meeting of the season held Thursday night at the Log Cabin in Phillips academy bird sanctuary.

Other officers elected were Harold Heseltine, first vice president; Edward A. Romeo, second vice president; James R. Mosher, secretary; Guy B. Howe Jr., treasurer, and Walter E. Buxton, David L. Coutts, Irving J. Whitcomb.

Instructions for establishing the minimum rentals for the veterans' housing units have been received by the Andover housing authority.

According to the procedure outlined in a letter from H.F. Altman, deputy director of the state housing authority, the minimum rents will be set on the following basis:

Small families (less than three minor dependents) 18% of the gross income;

Large families (three or more dependents) 14% of the gross income.

The maximum income limits are established for the small family at $3250 per year, and for the large family, $3500 a year. These amounts do not include pensions and other government gratuities.

These rental income ratios, Chairman Douglas R. Crockett of the local housing authority explained, are for shelter rent only. To this must be added, the instructions state, $14.26 per unit per month for utilities, such as heat, light, electricity. In no case will the main shelter rents be less than $30 for the small family and $23 for the large family.

Cites Readiness of Armed Forces

"In this age our nation requires protection 24 hours out of the day," said Kenneth L. Sherman, commander USNR and superintendent of schools, in an Armed Forces day speech last Saturday.

"There is no opportunity to buy time through our allies and our oceans. We are grateful for the exceptional degree of readiness maintained in our armed forces. Our gratitude is exceeded only by their willingness to serve."

Pointing out that today there are almost 1,500,000 men and women serving this country, many of them at overseas bases, working together to prevent the spread of a 'malignant pagan pestilence' which threatens our heritage, Mr. Sherman further said:

"It is imperative that we mobilize the spirit of all our people to our common peril. The so-called 'cold war' is a battle of survival. We are opposed to an utterly alien foe who wars against our religion, our culture, our ideals and our government."

"Our greatest danger comes not, as one might suspect, from lack of military preparedness, but from entirely too much wishful thinking on the part of our peace-loving citizenry."

OVERDOING IT

SMITH'S wife became desperately ill in the middle of the night. Leaving the ten little Smiths to care for themselves for the moment, he rushed her into the car and up to the hospital. The doctors took the ailing woman into the little white room for examination, leaving poor Smith outside to pace the floor interminably.

After what seemed like hours, a white-robed doctor emerged from the examination room and addressed himself to the husband.

"Mr. Smith, your wife has quincy—"

"My gosh!" said Smith as he fainted. "That makes fifteen."

District Items

The Andover district committee met in the library Thursday, May 18. It was voted to accept the resignation of Byron H. Smith, chairman of health and safety, with regrets. Mr. Smith has served for many years in that capacity but recently his business duties have prevented his attendance at meetings. Harold Rutter Sr. was voted to the position. It was also voted to accept the invitation of Richard Wrigley, commander of American Legion post 8, to march in the Memorial day parade. Attending the meeting were Calvin Metcalf, chairman; Francis Kelly, finance chairman; Merrill Burnett, senior scouting chairman; Walter Caswell, commissioner; Arnold Schofield, assistant commissioner; Howard Johnson, post 72 committeeman; John Souter, troop 72 scoutmaster; Roger Dea, assistant scoutmaster of troop 72; Daniel Worcester, troop 75 assistant scoutmaster; Howard Young, pack 72 assistant cubmaster; James Butler, troop 76 scoutmaster. This will be the last meeting until September unless a special meeting is called.

Any adults who would like to assist in the scouting program in Andover will be guided by any member of the Andover district committee; Calvin Metcalf, John H. Kelly, Everett MacAskill, Francis Kelly, Merrill Burnett, F. Tyler Carlton, Harold Rutter Sr., Howard Johnson, Walter Caswell and Arnold Schofield.

Council News

The North Essex council met recently. The business meeting was opened by William Brandy, president. F. Tyler Carlton and Walter C. Caswell represented the Andover district. William Youney, eagle scout and newly elected commander of the Knight Eagles, was voted a membership on the executive board, as was the retiring commander, David Backney. The president announced that there would be no meetings in June and July. An annual visit to Camp Onway will be made in August and after camp is closed a clam and lobster dinner is planned at Onway. There is still a great need for leaders as the number of cub packs, scout troops and explorer posts are increasing. There are 40 units and over 1500 members. Scores of men, many of whom were former scouts, are serving without monetary recompense as leaders and committeemen of various types.

All scouts and explorers who are going to Camp Onway this summer are urged by the district committee to register at the Lawrence scout office as soon as possible or they may lose out. There are 400 boy weeks available this summer and 118 boy weeks are already taken. Registrations are coming in much faster than in recent years.

Local Units

Troop 72 of the Free church held a parent's night Friday, May 19. The event gave the parents an opportunity to see the boys in action with their business meeting and other activities. A good audience was present and it was evident that the scouts have been working hard so that they may retain the council commissioner's flag that the troop won last year. They will compete on June 3 at the annual camporee.

at Camp Onway for the flag. A number of council and district officers were present. John Souter, scoutmaster, introduced the Rev. Levering Reynolds Jr. who presented the star scout badge to Roger Dea, assistant scoutmaster. Walter Caswell, commissioner, inspected the troop records, publicity, quartermaster's storage room and other items in connection with the Arrow-head honor award which John Souter and Roger Dea are working to obtain.

Post 72 of the Free church met Wednesday, May 17 with Fred Schaberg, advisor. A class in navigation was conducted by Capt. Arthur Sherman, U.S.A.F.R.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

MEMORIAL DAY

The graves of our soldier dead will be decorated next Tuesday as we pause to pay tribute to the memory of those members of our armed forces who died defending our nation.

Ever since 1868 when John A. Logan, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic issued a general order that May 30 be set aside that year "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in the defense of their country during the late rebellion" with the hope that "it will be kept up from year to year," this tribute has grown into a national custom.

The number of graves of our soldier dead, too, has grown since that time. They not only dot every village and town in the United States but they now lie far across the Atlantic and the Pacific, in almost every known land on the globe.

It is well at this time to think of them and of the causes for which they fought. Despite the great words of oratory that year after year on Memorial day decry the great waste and suffering of war, men and nations go on with the selfish ambitions which lead to inevitable difficulties and misunderstandings that result in the bitterness, the destruction, the unhappiness of armed conflict.

Earlier in the century we fought "to make the world safe for democracy" only to find that 25 years later the job had to be done over again with greater loss, greater hardship, greater sacrifice than ever before, and now with the echoes of battle hardly stilled we still find democracy threatened by forces that would destroy our way of life.

As we decorate those hallowed graves next Tuesday and dwell upon the awful tragedy of war, we should turn our thoughts and our actions toward the end that we have peace and unity within our own borders and in the family of nations which sorely need relief from strife and turmoil to follow the peaceful pursuits of mankind.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago - May 1900

A cordial invitation is extended by the authorities to all soldiers, sailors and patriotic associations to join in the solemn exercises planned for Memorial day.

Work will be started soon on laying about 400 ft. of eight-inch water pipe from the end of the line on Central st. toward Ballardvale.

Shad and alewives are plentiful in the Shawsheen river at Frye village. Men and boys are catching many of the last named fish.

A shelf for pictures has been built around the railing in the upper Memorial hall.

The Woman's Relief Corps wish to invite the children of Andover to gather flowers to decorate the soldiers' graves. Miss M.G. Perley and Miss Mary Parley Merrill have engaged passage for Europe on the Minneapolis, which leaves from New York.

During the severe thunderstorm last week the house of Frank Herrick was struck by lightning causing a damage of about $200. A small fire started in the attic but was quickly extinguished. The people in the house escaped miraculously. The lightning passed out of the house and killed their dog which was in an adjoining building.

25 Years Ago - May 1925

Returns for the 1925 state census show that the total population of Andover is now 10,269 as compared with 8,268 in 1920 or a gain of approximately 25 percent in five years.

A miniature cyclone, marked by a funnel-shaped cloud of dust visited Andover Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock sucking the covers of Sidney White's cold frames from his farm into its vortex and carrying them for some distance.

Dr. J.J. Daly of N. Main st. has removed to his new residence on Chestnut st.

Mrs. Henry S. Jenkins and Mrs. Frank M. Foster left for Baltimore where they were state delegates to the National convention being held there this week.

The program for Memorial day and the Sunday preceding arranged by Andover's patriotic organizations in honor of the soldier and sailor dead, has been completed. Harry A. Ramsdell will be the orator of the day.

The Woman's Relief Corps announces that it will award two prizes of $5 and $2.50 in gold to the students of the seventh and eighth grades and also to the students of Pynchard High who in the opinion of selected judges write the best essays on 'Our Flag.'

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Caswell have returned from a wedding tour through New York State and Canada and are residing at 38 York st.

10 Years Ago - May 1940

The Andover Male choir won again! A general feeling of suspense impregnated the large audience of about 1500 people who gathered at the Melrose High school auditorium to hear the superb performance of 13 combined glee clubs who had competed for the prizes offered each year by the New England Federation of Men's Glee clubs.

William H. Low, formerly of this town, was named one of six outstanding students of the country to receive the Olin scholarship at Wesleyan university.

Mrs. Benjamin Cameron of Maple ave. is visiting with her son, Fred Adams, at the marine base, Quantico, Virginia.

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

BY LEONARD F. JAMES

Those who don't believe in themselves don't win the respect of others. Russia not only believes in its methods and objectives, it repeatedly and loudly proclaims them. And with apparent complete self-confidence. But the western nations go about their business almost apologetically, and seem incapable of applying sound American advertising methods to the sale of resistance to communism.

It is high time that we sold ourselves on the magnificent proposal made on behalf of the United States by Dean Acheson. To do so we must forget party politics and look to our future security. For events have proved that our safety cannot be found through cooperation with Russia. Such so-called cooperation is a one-way street only. The only other choice is a strong united front. And for the first time since our disillusionment with Russia, the United States has come across with a proposal that offers real unity for western Europe.

Total Diplomacy

Dean Acheson has demonstrated his stature as an outstanding secretary of state by his accomplishments in Europe this month. He has propounded what has been labelled "Total Diplomacy", for want of a better term. He has persuaded the Atlantic Alliance nations that the United States is prepared to think globally. He has made a concrete offer that in foreign affairs the United States is taking the lead in persuading those nations not only to sign agreements to act together but to think together on issues that affect all.

Unity of Defense

The tangible evidence of this is the decision of the Atlantic Alliance nations to create a permanent council to fit together their separate strategic policies into one concerted policy. If the United States can sell itself on the project, then we have at last a united front against communism. The real victory for democracy against communism is Acheson's offer to the European powers that the United States will remain in Europe so long as there is the need to protect western Europe. This does not sound particularly startling. It looks like merely a continuation of such policies as the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan. But it is a tremendous step forward, and should receive the whole-hearted support of all parties and all citizens.

"Fringe Defense" Outmoded

The United States has recognized that the costs of defense are staggering for all the nations involved. Every foreign minister, every defense minister, is faced with the problem of how to tie in his nation's defense with its economic position. At long last the Atlantic Alliance is recognized for what it is. It must be thought of as an area stretching from the Pacific coast of the United States across the Atlantic to a line drawn through Scandinavia and Italy. The problem is not what each nation can do separately to defend itself, but how the entire area can defend itself as a unit.

Is this a change from former United States policy? Very decidedly. In the past our thinking has been what we may call "fringe defense." We have given military aid to Greece and Turkey as fringe countries susceptible to pressure from Russia. We have brought in Norway, Denmark, Italy into the Atlantic Alliance as fringe countries who can help to keep the Russian frontier as far eastwards as possible. We have doled out assistance as our budget allowed, sometimes more than we thought was necessary. And the participating nations squeezed out as large a portion of funds as they felt they could individually afford for self-protection.

In effect, each nation has seen the problem of common defense through the limitations of its own pocket-book. But spurred on by Acheson's broad conception of a common foreign policy against a serious common danger, the Atlantic nations are now prepared to pull together in the same large boat instead of each rowing its own little dinghy.

Area Defense

For the first time since the integration of American and British effort during the war, the democracies are ready to pool their resources into one huge fund for common defense. Together they can plan what forces each can contribute for the common aim, how to coordinate the best military brains, how to avoid the unnecessary costs of providing separate defense forces. They have agreed for several practical reasons. Russia has the advantages of coordinated forces and lower costs that are impossible for the 12 separate Atlantic members. Such military and financial cooperation should bring the nations together as nothing else has done so far.

U.S. Spurs Self-Confidence

America's contribution is not charity. The allies must still pay their own way and maintain their self-respect in doing so. America's contribution is to provide the vital spark of self-confidence in a joint enterprise. If the United States continues to provide this leadership, which only she can offer, the ultimate results are incalculable. The democracies can defend themselves physically, they can afford the costs of such a joint enterprise. More important still is the tremendous boost to collective security. The Atlantic Alliance agreed that an attack on anyone would be regarded as an attack on all. But that remained a paper treaty. The next stage is now commencing, the ties will be stronger. Common contribution means common action.

The task is far from completed, it has only just begun. Independence of action must be partially sacrificed for the common good. But the modern world does not permit nations to act just as they would wish. The paradox of collaboration is that collective action guarantees greater individual safety. Never was it truer that we stand together or fall separately. The United States has shown its responsibility through its willingness to recognize its close identity with world affairs. This is the stuff of which real leadership is made. The United States has come of age in international politics. It recognizes that the cold war is here to stay. It recognizes that the test of endurance such as we face today demands sustained, mature cooperation.

JOHNSON 6, PUNCHARD 0

Punchard had one bad inning in its game against Johnson high of North Andover Tuesday and went down to a 6-0 defeat while John Zuill, Johnson left-hander, was silencing local batters with two hits.

Jack McCarthy, of punchard, southpaw, was going along well was going along well up to the fifth when his wildness and misplays by his mates allowed Johnson to score five runs. Don Millay, sophomore, finished up for Punchard and allowed only two to reach first. Nine errors were chalked up against Punchard.

Many To March Memorial Day

Continuing down Main street to Central and to the Memorial Hall library the parade will come chief exercises of the morning will be held.

With the marchers assembling on Park street at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, the parade will start promptly at 8:45 a.m. and move over Whittier street to the auditorium.

For this occasion veteran organizations and their auxiliaries will be joined by the Gold Star mothers, the police and fire departments, boy scouts and girl scouts, and a platoon of soldiers from Camp Devens.

By its streamlined program which avoids long waits due to extended services at the Memorial auditorium and the Memorial tower, the parade committee expects that the marchers will reach the square by 10 o'clock and that the program will be completed before 10:30 a.m.

The parade will then disband but various organizations will then proceed to different cemeteries to hold exercises at the graves of departed comrades.

The V.F.W. will go to the Old South church and Indian Ridge school; the D.A.V. will go to St. Augustine's cemetery; and the Legion will proceed to West Parish cemetery for appropriate services as in past years.

Mrs. William D. Wight of Main st. has returned from a trip to Framingham.

Set Minimum Rentals

There are 56 dwelling units in the 12 buildings of the veterans' project on Morton street. Of these 34 have two bedrooms, 20 have three bedrooms, and two have four bedrooms.

The Andover housing authority has been meeting regularly each week to study the new forms recently made out by the housing applicants. The board is nearly finished with this phase of its work and expects to have the list of successful applicants completed by the end of this week.

Veterans to whom the units will be allotted will be notified by mail and the authority is in hopes the notices will be sent out by the first of next week.

Headmaster Elected

This is the second time that a Punchard headmaster has been taken from the faculty of Phillips academy. In 1871 William G. Goldsmith was called back to head the school after the absence of one year. He had previously served as principal from 1858 to 1869. His second term was 1871 to 1885. Mr. Howe becomes the eighteenth head of the school since 1854.

Mr. Howe prior to the time of his interview by the school committee had not been a candidate. However, his school and family background and pleasing personality won him the newly created headmastership and it will be his duty to merge the three year PUNCHARD high school and the three year Junior high school. It is expected that this may take several years to accomplish.

Mr. Howe was born in Hartford, Conn., Aug. 17, 1913, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Howe. He attended Taft school, a prep school for Yale in Watertown, Conn., and received his A.B. degree with honors at Yale in 1940. He played freshman football and varsity hockey at Yale. He held membership in the Torch Honor society and DKE fraternity. He has been teaching history at Phillips academy since 1947.

Mr. Howe entered the naval reserve as ensign in January 1942 and was released to inactive duty as lieutenant in November 1945. He saw service on mine sweepers along the western seaboard, in the Caribbean and in the Pacific theatre.

His wife is the former Priscilla Foster Lamb, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Lamb of New York City. They have two children, Catherine Foster Howe, born in December 1946, and Merrill Ford Howe, born in February, 1948.

PUNCHARD 14 - BURLINGTON

Starting off with a lead of six runs in the first inning, PUNCHARD had little difficulty in romping to a 14-4 victory over Burlington high Monday at the local playstead. Jim Murray, PUNCHARD short stop, featured the game by knocking in five runs with two triples and scoring twice himself.

The Siguan group of camp fire girls met at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Alan Dunlop, last Thursday afternoon for their regular weekly meeting. They made plans for an all day hike and planned menus for meals they would cook. On Saturday morning they met in Shawsheen Square and from there went by car to Ponds pond where they spent the day. They cooked three meals on the outdoor fireplace, played ball and went on a nature hike to gather materials for a terrarium. Those who went were Joyce Dunlop, Eleanor Warshaw, Linda Barrett, Mary Ann Doherty, Martha Dietrich Betsy Caswell, Ann Beneditti, Christa Hahnenstein, Janice Cairns, Marcia and Mildred Tangney, Mrs. Dunlop and Mrs. Caswell. Transportation was furnished by Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Thayer Warshaw, Walter Caswell and Rudolph Dietrich.

Woman's Club

The dramatic department of the Shawsheen Village Woman's club will meet at the home of Mrs. William Edwards, 76 Salem st. Friday afternoon May 26. As always, their performance was excellent and was received with great enthusiasm and appreciation by their audience.

Miss McCarthy's fourth grade presented the chapel program at the school last Friday morning. The children of the school are looking forward to the party which will be given them in the near future by the PTA as a reward for the excellent work they did in the operetta which they presented at the April PTA meeting.
